The 1973 INDIAN is similar to other yearbooks in that it tries to give a pictorial account of the past year's activities at Arkansas State University. But it differs from past ASU yearbooks in several respects. The most obvious is the new, horizontal format. The most important is the attempt to emphasize the individual student at this school. A yearbook is for people and therefore should be about people. The tone this year is informal. And the emphasis is on you, the student. Welcome to the 1973 INDIAN.

Students. Taken altogether, they are what really comprise a university. Taken singularly, they are distinct individuals, with unique personalities and lifestyles. To the administration, they are a faceless, nameless enemy known only by the nine numerals of student ID cards. To the faculty, they are listings on a roster — last name, first name, middle initial. To each other, they are merely fellow human beings in the same damn situation. For a look at these INDIVIDUALS turn to Page 16.

All animals tend to cluster together, and man is no different. The pack, the herd, the family, the organization. The names change but the purposes are the same. Be they social, professional, scholastic or special interest, groups of students abound on the ASU campus. Those GROUPS are presented beginning on Page 184.

Computers, administrators, proper channels, faculty, and miles and miles of red tape make up the SYSTEM. It's this system that strips the hapless student of his name and gives him in return a rank and serial number. It directs student life and the workings of the university machine. At best, it is self-perpetuating. The system breeds more of the same — computers, administrators, proper channels, faculty and miles and miles of red tape . . . . That section begins on Page 126.

There are students and there are students. Many slide through their four-year sentences in something close to anonymity. But there are those few who, either by choice, fate, pressure or bad luck, find themselves in the limelight. Those few are the VIPs — the big men and women on campus — the office holders, the editors, the majorettes, the cheerleaders and the such. To some, they are important people; to others, they aren't a damn bit more important than anybody else. Nevertheless, the VIPs begin appearing on

To the average student, they are Jocks. To the coaches and booster clubs, they are athletes. To school-aged boys, they are heroes of the first order. Their fans laud them; their critics jeer them. The JOCKS, and the sports they participate in, start on Page 270.

Day to day life at ASU is more a matter of survival than anything else. From class to class, day to day, week to week, test to test, semester to semester year to year. If the grades don't getcha, the boredom will. But there are escapes from the routine, such as ballgames, dances, concerts and other recreations. A few of the essentials of SURVIVAL at ASU are presented in the section beginning on Page 324.

On Greeks

This page, as well as this entire section of the INDIAN, is devoted to the Greek population of ASU. Some may ask, "Why should the Greeks have two pages per group plus several activity pages while other social organizations are more limited?"

The staff of the INDIAN asked this same question at the beginning of the year. While there were arguments pro and con on the question, the pros outweighed the cons.

FACT: There are more than 750 Greeks at ASU.

FACT: Greeks are always active in philanthropic and other projects.

FACT: Greeks have dominated SGA positions.

OPINION: (And I would rather say fact) Greeks are one of the stabilizing forces at Arkansas State. While most of the other folks go home on the weekends, the Greeks stick around and raise hell at ballgames, throw parties, man road blocks for various charity drives, help co-ordinate campus-wide activities, and just generally try to help others while they help themselves.

For these reasons, previous yearbook staffs have felt that the Greeks are important enough to the University to deserve an entire section. For these same reasons, we have upheld the tradition.

This is not to say that the Greek section has not undergone any changes. You will notice that this year the fraternities come before the sororities. We decided that if the women wish to be liberated, and to be equal to men, they can take the back seat for a while.

Boasting the only fraternity housing facility at ASU, Alpha Gamma Rho is in its third year locally and 69th year nationally.

AGR, (first three letters of the word "agriculture") is both a professional and a social fraternity because its members are agriculture majors or are pursuing a similar career.

Members of Alpha Gamma Rho, which is the newest fraternity on campus with the exception of Ebony Esquires, are active in a wide variety of organizations and activities.

AGR is known for having the only fraternity housing facility on campus, for being the first Greek group to contribute to the New Era Fund and, of course, for their tractor.

Alpha Tau Omega

Alpha Tau Omega celebrated its fifth year at ASU Feb. 27, 1973. To help celebrate the occasion, National President John L. Putman visited the brothers of Eta Gamma on their anniversary.

The ATOs participated in several philanthropic projects, such as the Heart Fund Drive. One of the Taus' main projects during the year was the KAAY Toys for Tots Marathon. The ATO's are the first group from ASU to ever participate in the drive.

The national fraternity prides itself in being the first to establish a "Help Week" rather than the humiliating "Hell Week."

ATOs were active in SGA, varsity athletics, ROTC and school publications.

Spring pledges are (sitting): Jimmy Wilson, George Losak, Steve Crawley, Tom Gibson, Duane Lutrell. (Standing): Terry Cross, Mike Norman, Steve Skinner and David Stokes.

Ebony Esquire

The Greek system underwent a great change this year with the establishment of ASU's first black fraternity, Ebony Esquire.

The Ebony Esquires gained a non-voting seat in the Interfraternity Council, and will be given voting privileges as soon as they gain affiliation with a national fraternity.

Hobo Day and Black History Week Talent Show were two of the activities sponsored by the new group in 1972-73. The Ebony Esquires also worked on the Prisoner of War (POW) Drive road block. Along with their female counterparts, the Ebonettes, the Ebony Esquires co-sponsored a fund-raising drive for sickle cell anemia.

All things considered, Ebony Esquire made a valuable contribution to the Greek system. With plans for national affiliation before the year is through, it seems that Ebony Esquire is on its way to becoming a valuable asset to ASU.

Kappa Alpha

Kappa Alpha Order is unique. It is unlike the other fraternities at ASU because of its goals to make southern gentlemen out of its pledges, and to help restore the ideals of the old south.

KA was founded in 1865 by Gen. Robert E. Lee. All chapters of the KA Order are located in the southern United States.

Each year the KAs grow beards and dress up in Confederate uniforms in observance of their "Old South Week." This week is highlighted by the Old South Ball.

KAs are active in all aspects of campus and community life.

Lambda Chi Alpha

After 14 years on campus, Lambda Chi Alpha has grown to become one of the largest fraternities at ASU. It seems only appropriate that the Lambda Chis should be the subject of such growth; they boast the largest national fraternity.

Lambda Chi was founded at Boston University in 1909. Iota Theta chapter sponsors the annual "Lambda Chi Little 500" in the spring. The Lambda Chis are active in all campus-wide charity drives, and they sponsor their own Christmas party for underprivileged children.

Other activities that the Lambda Chis sponsor are the Crescent Ball and the Founders' Day Banquet. Members of LXA are active in varsity athletics, SGA and publications.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Possibly one of the most community service-oriented groups on campus, Pi Kappa Alpha, is entering its 25th year at Arkansas State.

Pikes are active in a wide variety of community service projects. For example, Frank Rains was the campus coordinator for the POW-MIA campaign. The Pikes have also proved to be leaders on campus, with several members involved in student government. PiKA Wayne Deen was this year's IFC president.

Other Pikes are involved in varsity athletics and other activities.

Each year the Pikes sponsor the Pike Little Olympics to provide good, dirty fun for the sorority girls at ASU. Other big events during the year include the Dream Girl Formal, Founders' Day Banquet, and a Christmas party for underprivileged children.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Founded at Richmond College in 1901, Sigma Phi Epsilon has become one of the strongest Greek organizations at Arkansas State.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

By far the largest fraternity on campus, Tau Kappa Epsilon showed its intramural prowess by winning the over-all intramural football and basketball championships. Though several intramural events were re-maining when the yearbook went to press, it seemed as though the Tekes had a clear shot at the Intramural Sweepstakes Trophy.

TKE also took the top honor in Homecoming display competition. Tekes were active in all phases of University life. Activities engaged in by the Tekes included SGA, varsity athletics, publications and IFC.

While establishing themselves as strong competitors in sports and contests, the Tekes have not neglected the ever-important philanthropic projects that they participate in. Beta Psi usually ranks at the top of the Red Cross Blood Drive.

Lambo 500, Pike Olympics Cause Mayhem

When it comes to the Lambda Chi Alpha Little 500 and the Pi Kappa Alpha Little Olympics, it doesn't matter if you win or lose — only that you have a good time.

The participants in both events always display that competitive spark — a desire to make the other guy look really bad. The 500 provides good clean fun for a Sunday afternoon, while the Olympics provide good not-so-clean fun.

Both events received whole-hearted support from the Greeks this year. And, as a wise old sage once said, "A good time was had by all — again."

A pair of ZTA's (left) try to establish a reputation as the best "pushers," on campus while an enthused child (right) looks on. The AOPi's (below) truck over to the track for the Lambo 500.

Something (left) resembling a teenage mummy from a low-budget movie, and a sorority girl (right) who is forced into laying (or do I mean catching) an egg, are both part of the PIKA Little Olympics.

More Than A Club— A New Way Of Life

More community and school service projects and less strenuous pledgeship requirements seem to be the trend in Greek organizations across the land — and Arkansas State seems to be no exception.

With "hazing" rapidly disappearing, the fraternities at ASU have placed more emphasis on philanthropic projects. For example, the Greeks are possibly THE major force behind the success of the Red Cross blood drives.

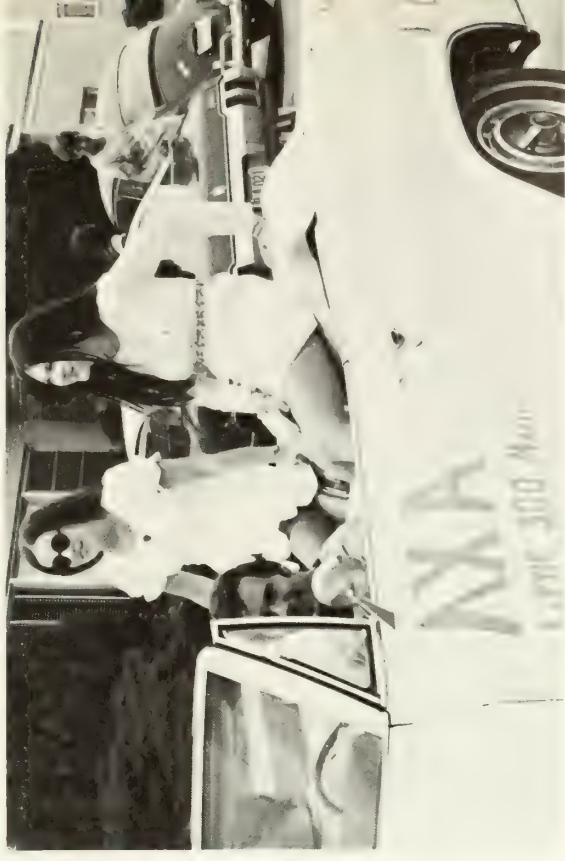

While pledge harassment was never quite the problem in sororities that it was among fraternities, the female Greeks have also gained added interest in service projects.

Between intramural ballgames, songfests, rush parties and the like, Greeks realize that they have a lot to give — and they are not hesitant to do so.

Rush party? Well, not quite. This AOPi pledge is playing with (not rushing) a needy child at the annual Christmas party sponsored by Greek pledges.

There ain't no Pi like an . . . well, you know the rest!

Seriously though, the members of Alpha Omicron Pi make a concentrated effort to participate in many philanthropic projects throughout the year. Matter of fact, the AOPi's sponsor the AOPi Songfest every spring to raise money for the National Arthritis Foundation.

ASU's Sigma Omicron chapter of AOPi received its charter in 1949. The sorority was founded at Columbia University in 1897.

In addition to outside charities, Alpha Omicron Pi offers a scholarship every semester to one of the sisters. AOPi's are active in a multiplicity of campus activities.

Sincere learning and creditable scholarship, high standards of personnel, friendship, vocational goals, social and civic service and participation in campus activities are Chi Omega's main goals and purposes.

Since being founded at the University of Arkansas in 1895, Chi Omega has established itself as one of the largest national sororities in the country with over 150 college chapters. ASU's chapter, Omicron Zeta (Ozzie), was established Feb. 25, 1961.

Omicron Zeta annually sponsors the Chi Omega Dating Game, involving students (both Greek and independent) and faculty. Also, the Chi O's have a "Christmas Kindness" project to help needy families.

Soon after the Ebony Esquires arrived at ASU, their female counterpart, the Ebonettes, made the scene. The Ebonettes were given a non-voting position on the Panhellenic Council while they attempt to gain affiliation with Alpha Kappa Alpha national sorority.

The Ebonettes participated in a variety of Greek-oriented campus activities, as well as numerous philanthropic projects. The group co-sponsored the sickle cell anemia drive, and sponsored a fashion show in Chickasaw Cafeteria.

A suite in Caraway Hall was given to the Ebonettes soon after their founding. With several girls already pledging AKA, and national affiliation in the near future, it seems that the Ebonettes are here to stay.

Kappa Delta, recognized at ASU as one of the smallest but most respected sororities, is also one of the newest. Delta Kappa chapter was founded in March of 1968.

KDs are active in just about all Greek-oriented activities. They are traditionally strong competitors in the Pike Little Olympics.

In speaking of Phi Mu, one could take the words of a popular TV commercial, slightly paraphrase it, and come up with the perfect description:

Phi Mu is not getting older — it's getting better.

Seriously though, Phi Mu is the second oldest social organization in the nation. It was founded 120 years ago at Wesleyan College in Macon, Ga.

The ASU chapter of Phi Mu (Epsilon Delta) was founded in 1951. The group's big deal each year is the Phi Mu Playhouse — a theatrical talent show that involves all of the other Greeks at ASU. The proceeds from the show go to the S.S. Hope.

Phi Mu also is involved in many other philanthropic projects, such as the St. Jude's Hospital drive. The group also is involved in all aspects of campus life.

As Bob Dylan wrote, "It takes a lot to laugh, it takes a train to cry," but only a Phi Mu would pose for a picture like this.

Zeta Tau Alpha

May, 1973, marks the fifth anniversary of Zeta Tau Alpha on the ASU campus. The national sorority was founded in 1868 at Longwood College.

One of the major activities engaged in by Zetas each year is the Jonesboro Christmas Parade. The sisters dress in costumes ranging from Disney characters to angels to entertain children.

Another area of community service in which Zetas are active is the National Association for Retarded Children.

Hill Hurdles Toward Munich For A Gold Medal

Tom Hill's at the Head of the Line Now

ASU's Thomas Hill Is Awed By Facilities at Munich

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Sports facilities for the Summer Olympics were praised Sunday by the first contingent of American trackmen to arrive for the Games starting in Italy. Most will compete in a pre-Olympic meet in Munich on Tuesday.

The remainder of the U.S. track and field squad of 70 athletes and 10 coaches and

Seymour and teamate Richard Bruggemann said they jogged on the artificial track of the Olympic stadium, whose tent-like roof has been blamed for trapping hot air in the competition area.

Hurdlers Qualify for the Olympics

Contenders for a place on the American hurdlers' team came toward the finish at the recent trials at the University of Arkansas. Hill, now an Army lieutenant, was a track star at Arkansas.

Hill Third In High Hurdles At Olympics

MUNICH (AP) — Thomas Hill, the former Arkansas State University hurdler, finished third today in the Olympic 110-meter high hurdles.

Rod Milburn of the United States won the Gold Medal in the event. He equalled the world record of 13.2 seconds. Guy Druet of France was second.

Hill had won his heat in the semifinals Monday with a time of 13.47. He noxed out Druet with a sudden burst of speed at the tape.

Today's event marked the first time that Hill had lost a hurdles race since the beginning of the trials. He won four races in the trial, two in preliminary meets and two in the Olympics.

Hill, a native of New Orleans, La., graduated past spring from Arkansas State and is now a lieutenant in the Army. In 1970 he was rated the No. 1 hurdler in the world but in 1971 he suffered an injured knee in a race during the winter indoor season and missed the entire year.

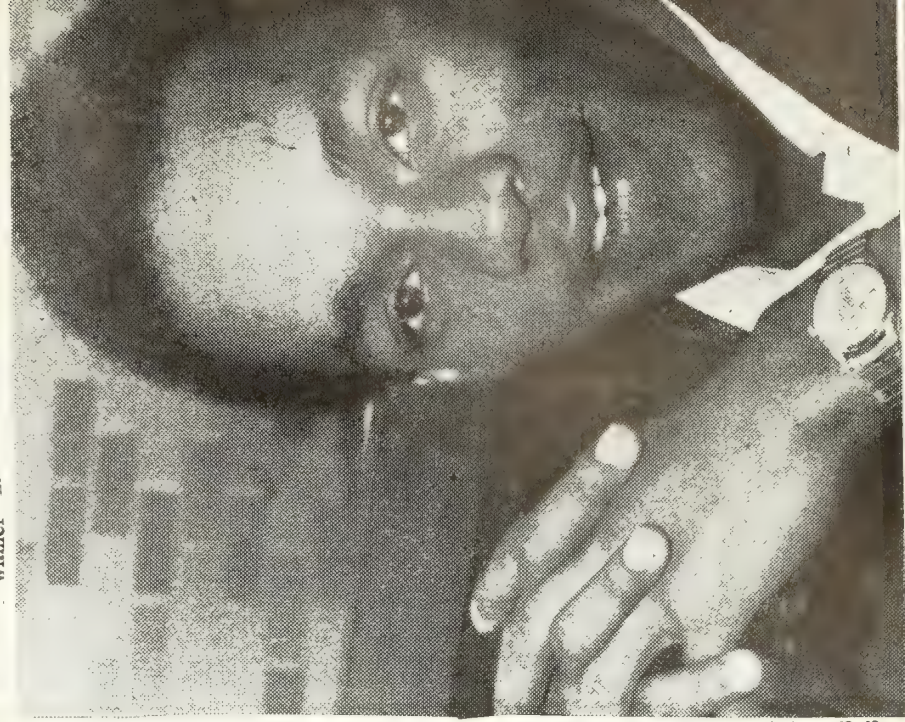

Hill put himself through an extensive rehabilitation program and the knee responded. He beat Milburn in the finals of the Olympic trials and has beaten him one time since.

to Oslo, and probably meet for the Games at the end of September.

Track ends Sept. 10, two days after the semifinals. He's the first-place winner, was an easy door race winner in the final.

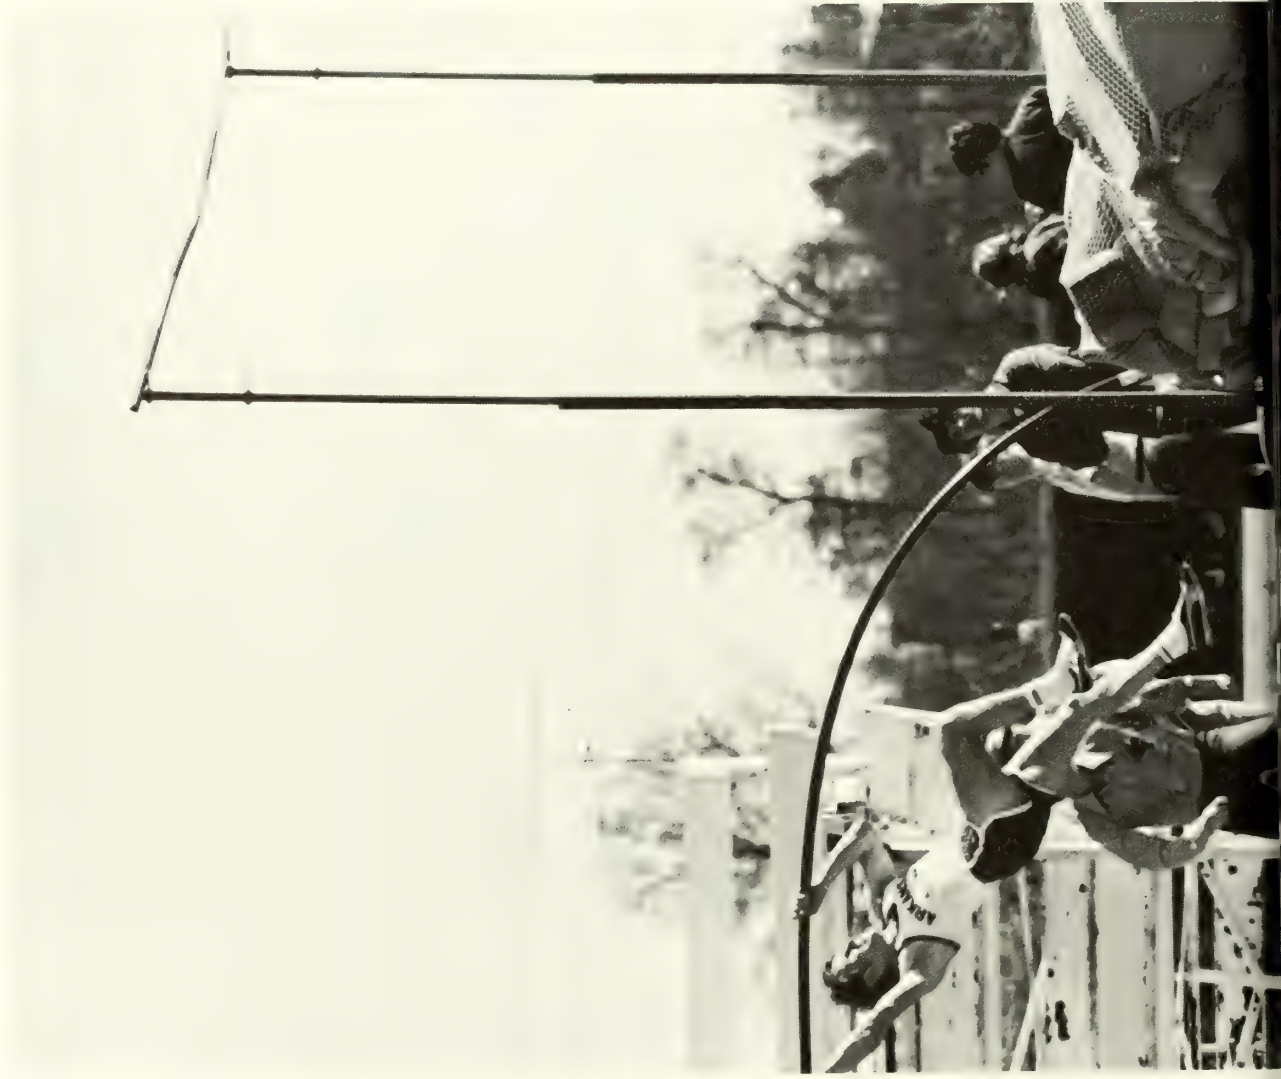

Lt. Thomas Hill of the United States Army, and his wife, June, who has been named June winner of the Worthen Sports Award.

Hill, receiving all but two votes, was an easy door race winner in the final.

Thinclads Win 4 Events, Take 4th in SLC Meet

Four was the magic number for Arkansas State in track competition in 1972, as the Redmen captured four first place finishes and took fourth place in the Southland Conference Championship Meet at Beaumont, Tex.

Led by a new conference meet record in the long jump by Kim Bellis, the thin-clads also took firsts in the 120-yard high hurdles (Tom Hill), the half-mile (John Scurto) and the 3,000 meter steeplechase (Mike Holt).

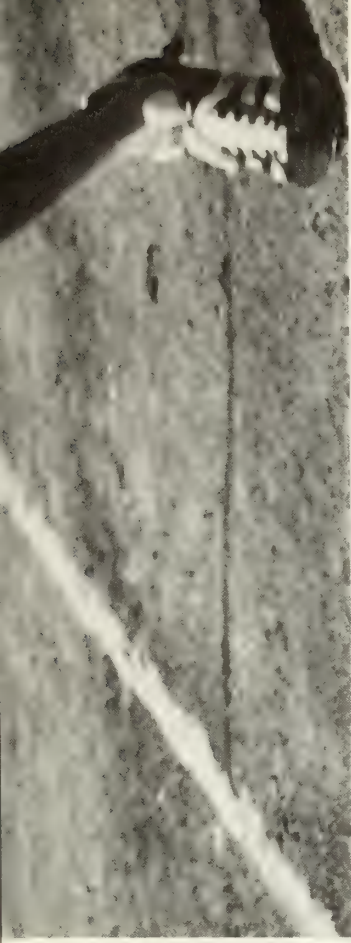

Several of the tracksters continued on to other meets following the conference finale, but none enjoyed the success in post season meets that Hill did.

The Super Chief, a native of New Orleans, mounted momentum late in the year and swept four straight wins at the Olympic trials at Eugene, Ore.

In capturing the top spot on the American team, Hill beat such outstanding hurdlers as world record holder Rod Milburn and 1968 gold medalist Willie Davenport.

Hill continued his winning ways, taking two wins in competition in Europe prior to the Olympics and two in preliminary heats in the qualifying rounds, advancing to the finals of the Olympics.

However, Milburn ran a super race in the finals, capturing the gold while Hill finished third at 13.4 seconds, good for a bronze medal.

Golfers Start Hot, Finish Cold

Tribe linksters showed considerable promise early in the year before falling to a so-so 5-4-1 season mark.

However, the first four players will be returning next year, holding hope of better things for the coming year.

Lack Of Funds Keeps Bowlers From National

It seems ironic in a year that produced no standout teams in the three major sports that the one ASU team that did win a berth in a national playoff couldn't get enough money to participate.

It is unfortunate, but was the plight of the ASU bowling team, winners of the Region 7 title last year.

They bested such teams as Houston, Texas and LSU in the tourney, too.

But maybe next year the team will get some financial support, and maybe they'll repeat as region champs, and maybe . . .

Gymnasts Whip Razorbacks, Win 3rd Straight State Title

Arkansas State University finally got its shot at "the other University" in the state and the result was a lopsided win — for the gymnastics team.

For the third straight year, the gymnasts captured the state championship in exercise competition, topping the University of Arkansas at Little Rock, State College of Arkansas and the widely beloved Hogs.

Paced by five firsts by Dennis Kersting and two each for Donna Robinson and Becky Hume, the Indians took the men's, women's and overall divisions.

I guess it just goes to show that it was a bad year for Pork on the open market.

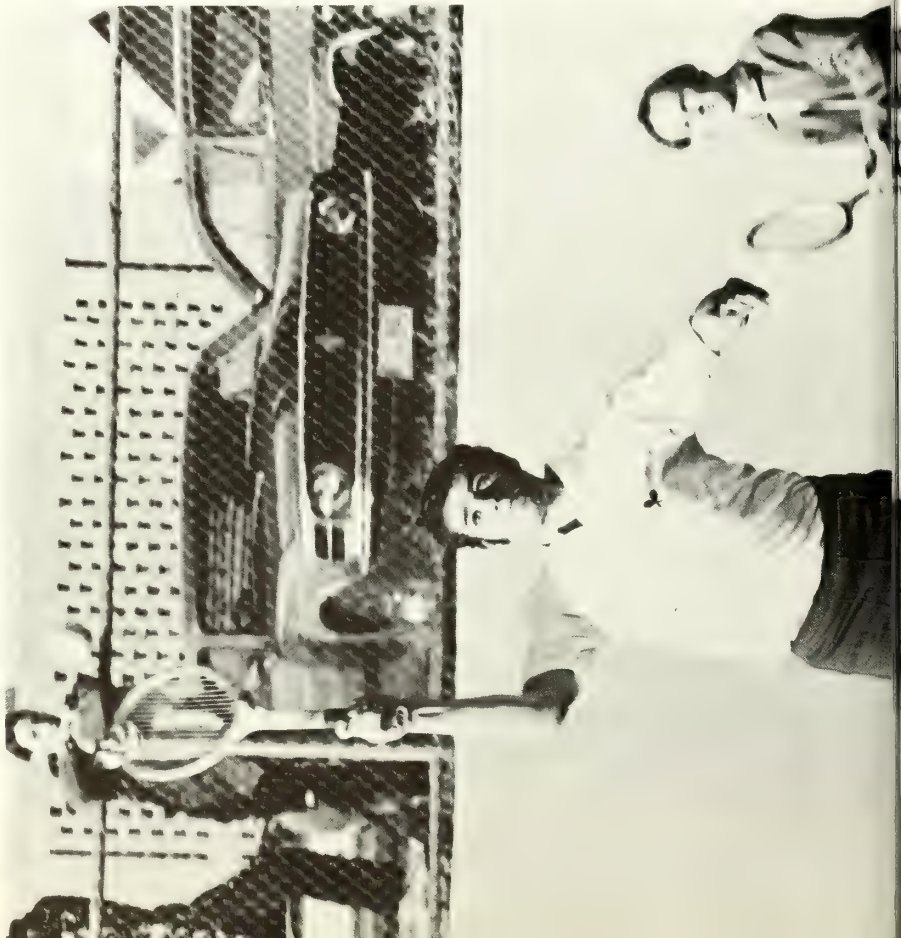

It was a year on the upswing for the young netters of Arkansas State, but the promise of an improved, more experienced team for next year was there.

Despite a disappointing showing in Southland Conference matches (the Tribe lost two and tied two in league competition) the tennis team managed to record a respectable 13-9-2 slate.

In seven of the nine losses, the Indians were whitewashed (winning no matches) which points to a need of more consistency on the courts.

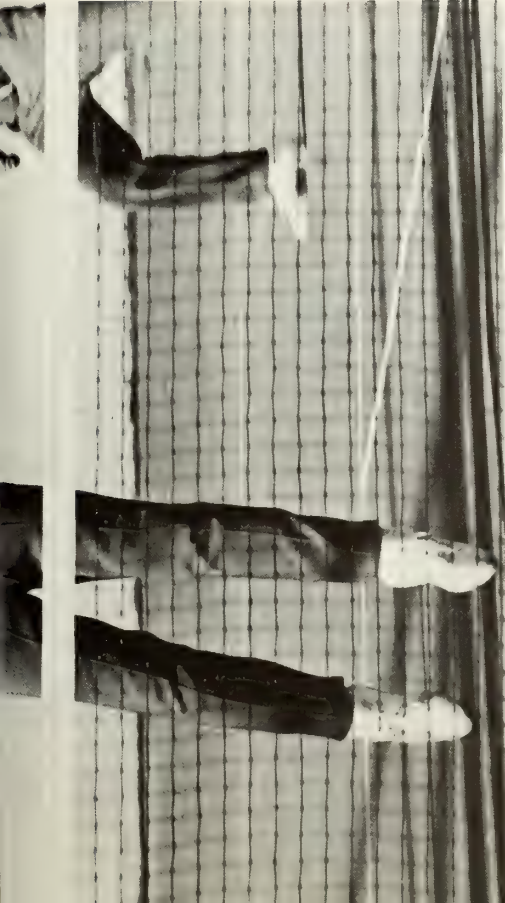

The numbers one and three players, Ken Mitchell and Jose Chavez, each recorded personal winning seasons, capturing 13 and 15 wins respectively.

In doubles competition, Mitchell and Paul Balducci led the team with a 15-7 mark.

Young Netters Show Promise Despite Poor Conference Record

Hitting, Pitching Fail As Indians Struggle Through Luckless Year

There is no joy in Jonbur — to borrow a phrase from Mighty Casey and his Mudville prose.

Most of the starters of the 1971 squad were returning, and the Tribe appeared well set even at the vacated positions.

However, when the season started, the bats didn't — SLC foe UT-Arlington fired 3 shutouts at the Indians at the start of the year.

And to add to the Tribe's troubles, only right-hander Charles Blackburn had an earned run average below 4.86.

Righthander Rich Deuser prepares to uncork during one of the Indians' games, while below, Pete Davis heads out for first.

Gary Pitts churns down the line after dropping a sacrifice bunt on UTA.

Things seemed doomed to get worse before they got better — the Indians' season mark dipped to 11-19.

But worse than this, the 3-12 record in SLC was the worst finish of the Indians since the start of the league.

Only two starters were lost to graduation last year, but almost assuredly the Tribe will approach the next baseball season with an optimism of a quiet and cautious nature.

Tribe Suffers Worst Finish In SLC History

New Faces Dot Lineup In Spring Game

Spring practice — that tedious period that falls between the end of one season and the start of another — was over and now came the time to bring the session to a close with the annual Red-White game.

It was to prove to be a "different look" for the Indians of 1972, and even the most avid A-State rooter needed a scorecard to identify the new players.

Familiar names that had brought a national championship to the campus only a year ago were gone, the only five returning seniors would be back to give guidance to the new squad.

Could you please tell me where the bathroom is?

Indians Vs Indians Results In Whites Win

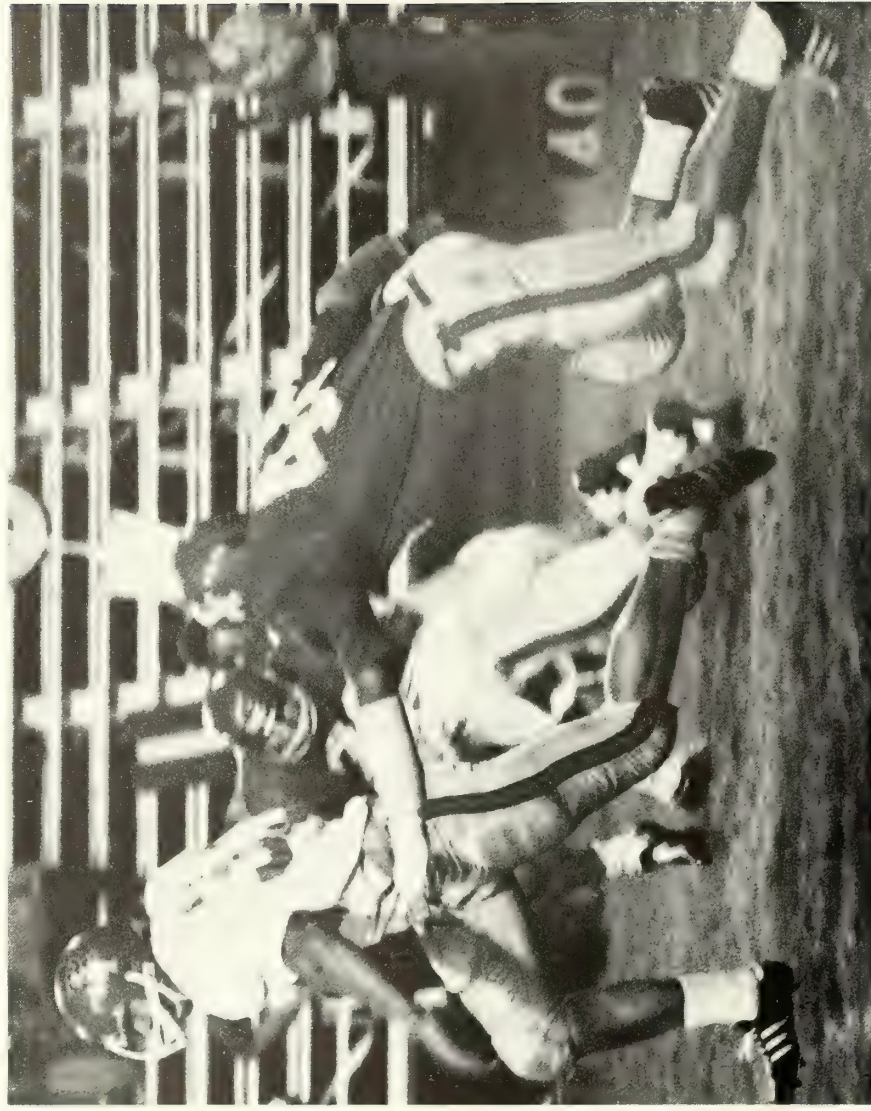

Indians against Indians — if you're for Arkansas State you can't lose as the gridgers climaxed spring training with their annual Red-White game at Kays Stadium, which the White team won, 23-13.

The Whites wasted little time taking the lead, as James Flynn connected with Joe Hollimon on the first offensive play of the game for a 7-0 White lead.

The White team advanced the lead to 14-0 (on a TD run by Jimmy Lisko) before the Red team finally broke the ice with a 7-yard scamper by Stan Winfrey.

Jack Ross directed the Reds to a second score that narrowed the margin to 14-13, but the Whites iced the game in the fourth.

It's only a game — but remember, if we lose, there goes my job!

Indians' New Offense Gets Rough Treatment In Grid Season Opener

Breaking in a wishbone is not an easy task, as the Indians discovered when they lost their opener of the '72 season, a 27-17 decision against McNeese State at Jonesboro.

Freshman safety David Hines filled the home crowd with excitement early in the game, racing 39 yards for a touchdown the first time he touched the ball as a collegian.

A field goal by Joe Duren increased the score to 10-0 before the Cowboys could get untracked.

However, late in the first half, McNeese started to move and the momentum carried over to the second half for the visitors as they came from behind to win.

A-State did get a score in the second half on a 5-yard burst by fullback Stan Winfrey, who brought back memories to many Injun fans of Calvin Harrell with his driving power and ability to break tackles.

A week later, however, most all of the critics were silenced — at least temporarily — when A-State soundly thumped Eastern New Mexico, 39-7.

Led by Jeff Sackett and Stan Winfrey, both of whom gained over 100 yards rushing, the Indians set a new record for single game rushing with a total of 519 yards.

With James Flynn directing the rushing attack, the versatile Steve Burks contributed a 50-yard touchdown scamper from his split end position and snared a couple of clutch receptions.

"If you don't bring back my football, I'm going to tell my mother!"

Tribe Topples Cajuns; Falls Against Wichita

No points were on the board for the Indians at the start of their second home game, and none were on at the finish either as Wichita State University shut out the Tribe, 6-0.

Seven mistakes — yes seven, count em — three interceptions, two fumbles and two futile fourth down attempts kept the Indians from penetrating beyond the Shocker 23-yard line.

A week later, however, the Redmen turned the tables on SLC foe Southwestern Louisiana, 21-18.

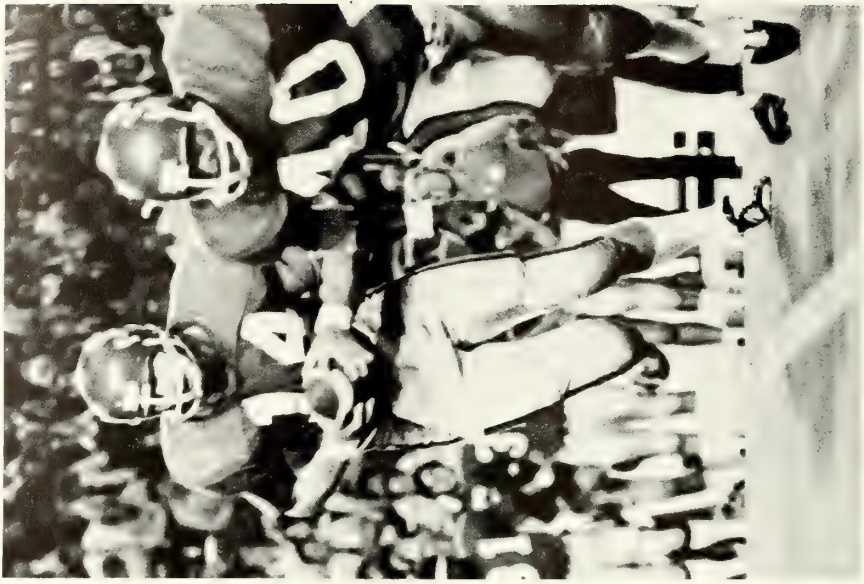

Three touchdowns by quarterback Steve Burks and a crucial fake punt allowed the Tribe to maintain ball control in the final minutes when USL was threatening to pull the game out of the fire.

A big difference in the offensive production increase of the team was attributed to the return of Julius Hollimon and Richard Thomas to the starting lineup after early season injuries, which caused the two speedsters to miss the second and third games of the season.

While their fellow students partied and enjoyed themselves during the annual fall invasion of Little Rock, the youthful Indians were fed like sacrificial lambs to the nation's top-ranked college division football team, Louisiana Tech. The sparse War Memorial Stadium crowd of 13,000 witnessed the "slaughter" as the visitors from Louisiana powered to a 38-17 triumph. The loss eliminated the Tribe from any chance at the Southland Conference crown and reaffirmed the majority belief that the Bulldogs were indeed the class of the league. ASU's record fell to a disappointing 2-4 as the Indians lost for only the second time in six years in Little Rock.

Steve Burks looks to turn upfield as Stan Winfrey pulls.

Spirit-Filled Weekend Ends In Loss To No. 1

Fans got the opportunity to appraise all three Tribe quarterbacks as starting signal caller Steve Burks sustained a hip injury early in the third quarter. James Flynn and Greg Hill were inserted in the game as replacements and fared no better in efforts to penetrate the staunch Bulldog defense. Burks' injury was serious enough to force him to miss several ensuing games and gave Flynn and Hill a chance to show their abilities in game situations.

Tribe Splits Two Close Ones; The Loss Came In SLC Play

A flag, a whistle, the man in the striped shirt walking the wrong way with the ball, and — you guessed it — another loss for the Indians.

Just when almost certain victory seemed to await the Indians, an unsportsmanlike conduct call stalled the last minute drive and the ensuing field goal attempt of 48 yards proved to be too difficult for placekicker Joe Duren as the Indians lost to Lamar University, 26-24.

The loss dropped ASU's record to 2-6 on the year and 0-4 at home.

The big rush kept the opposition's quarterback under the gun.

Meanwhile, down in Louisiana, the Indians were getting ready to play the Indians in their Homecoming contest. Oops, this - - - type-writer messed up again.

No wait a minute, I had it right the first time, and Arkansas State took advantage of their red brothers, edging past Northeast Louisiana, 14-13.

However, the start of the game did little to give indication that the Tribe would even be in the game at the end of the 60 minutes.

A touchdown strike and two field goals paced the Northeast Louisiana Indians to a 13-0 halftime lead while it appeared that the Arkansas State Indians were content to stay in their teepees until the second half.

The Northeast Louisiana defense continued to stifle the Indians through almost the entire third quarter before the Tribe finally scored on a five-yard run by Richard Thomas.

With approximately six minutes remaining in the game, freshman Greg Hill, substituting for injured quarterback Steve Burks, guided the Indians in for their final score and Joe Duren's PAT provided the margin of victory.

It was the final win of the year for the young squad and more disappointingly, none of the wins came before the home fans.

Trinity Proves More Than 'Paper Tiger'

Attendance figures dipped almost as low as the temperature at the annual Homecoming game as the Indians dropped their 7th game of the year, a 32-22 loss to Trinity University.

If the below freezing temperature and continuous drizzle did little to excite the few fans that did turn out for the game, the gridders were at least the equal of the elements, managing only 14 points from 5 excellent scoring opportunities in the game's first half.

It seemed of little significance that the Tribe managed to put another touchdown on the board late in the second half — Trinity was holding onto a safe 18 point lead at the time and most of the students who stayed for all of the first half left following the announcement of display winners at halftime.

Scaife Sparks Tribe To Early Success

Adversity in itself is not an unconquerable foe, but add more and more adversity . . . and you have the Indians' 1972-73 basketball season.

Despite what was termed a "good" recruiting effort, the number of Injuns dwindled as several freshmen and junior college athletes were packing their bags before the season even started.

The most crucial blow, however, came when returning All-SLC performer Steve Brooks injured a wrist that would sideline him for the entire season.

Nonetheless, faced with a drastic lack of depth and a squad which had only one senior member, the young team battled back well in the early season games.

As the saying goes, the Tribe was truly "ready to play" in its season opener, topping Tusculum College 109-61 at Indian Field House.

The squad had two more games to play before hitting the road for the first time of the season and the cagers took full advantage of their home court edge.

Wins over Northwestern Oklahoma (77-69) and Houston Baptist (87-82) helped the Indians to ease out to a 3-0 mark after its first three games.

No small factor in the Tribe's early success was sophomore guard Don Scaife of Helena.

Showing signs of fulfilling his promise shown in his freshman campaign, Scaife riddled A-State opponents for 95 points in the first three contests.

The 30-plus scoring average was good enough to vault the young cager into the top five scorers during the opening weeks of the basketball campaign.

The bubble burst at Mercer, however, as ASU dropped both of its contests in the invitational tournament and finished dead last.

The losses were to prove to be a bad omen for the Indians, as the Tribe managed only one win for the entire year away from Indian Fieldhouse, and that came on the final game of the year.

Crowd response to the Tribe's cage efforts were very good during the early games, but lost their spirited edge as the long season wore on.

"Bo's" Traveling Show Sends Tribe To Defeat

Taking to the road after gaining revenge against Mercer University at Indian Fieldhouse, the Indians continued to be plagued by the road jinx, losing to the McNeese State Cowboys, 101-77.

McNeese State proved to be only one of four teams that the Tribe would play that would either be under charges by the National Collegiate Athletic Association of recruiting violations or all ready under suspension.

A return to Indian Fieldhouse proved to carry much better fortunes for the Tribe, as the squad rallied for an impressive 85-76 win over the Cardinals of Lamar University.

Elton Hayes, the Cardinals' pivot man who came into the contest as the nation's leading percentage shooter from the field, was held to only 10 points and five rebounds.

Jerry White, matched against Hayes in the contest, won that individual battle with 23 points and 15 rebounds.

However, another "team under suspicion" invaded the Tribe's confines the following Monday and pinned A-State with a 119-106 loss.

Southwestern Louisiana had been charged with 124 recruiting irregularities, but obtained a restraining order to keep the NCAA from taking action until the end of the season.

The return of Jerry White greatly bolstered the Tribe's inside game.

Cowboys, Mavericks
Post Slim Victories
Over Faltering Tribe

And things got worse before they got better. The young squad rallied from a 14-point deficit in the closing minutes, only to fall to UT-Arlington.

Following sound defeats at the hands of Centenary College and Louisiana Tech, the Indians were then faced with their rematch with McNeese State.

A stiff 1-3-1 defense all but completely shut off the inside attack of the Cowboys, led by 6-11 Ed Lawrence and 6-10 Gene Bodden. However, the height was the telling factor in the end, as a follow shot by Lawrence in the game's final seconds beat ASU, 81-80.

Parrish Leads Gents To Overtime Win

Don Scaife goes high to can two of his 25 points in the loss to Centenary.

Injun Fans Say "Wait Till Next Year"

If you're from Brooklyn or Arkansas State, you can appreciate the old saying "wait until next year."

Despite a 7-17 record at the season's end, there are several bright spots for Indian backers to look forward to in the 73-74 cage campaign.

Looking first to the backcourt, the Tribe will return two sophomores, Don Scaife and J. H. Williams.

Scaife, a first-team All-SLC performer in his first year of varsity competition, ended the season as the Tribe's top scorer with a 21.3 ppg average and contributed greatly on defense with his quickness which allowed him to lead the team in steals.

Williams moved into the starting lineup toward the end of the year as part of the rebuilding effort by the Indians and finished the season with an 11.8 ppg average and led the team in assists.

The entire front line — Jerry White, Lonnie Webber and Schuler Rowland — will also be returning for the Indians.

After his return at mid-term, White finished second in scoring with a 16.3 norm and led the team in rebounds with a 10.2 average.

Rowland was the third leading scorer with a 12.5 average while Webber, in addition to finishing second in rebounding, led the squad in field goal and free throw percentages.

And then there is Steve Brooks, who will be returning for his fourth year of varsity competition after sitting out the past year.

With this nucleus returning and a better recruiting season (in staying numbers, anyway), 73-74 could well be the year that the Tribe works its way back up the conference ladder of respectability.

Students "Get Involved" In Intramural Activities

Survival

Registration — “We’ve Only Just Begun ... And We’re Tired Of It Already!”

HELP!

Approximately 2,136 lonely freshmen discovered the unnatural phenomenon known as “Registration at ASU” August 30. Not knowing what to expect, they got everything but what they anticipated — long lines, closed classes, mixed-up schedules and general confusion.

Adjustments had to be made quickly and in strange situations. Freshmen had to learn, among other things, that MWF stands for Monday, Wednesday, Friday (not something sinister), that college teachers are known as “instructors” and that names are no good without numbers. The thought uppermost in many minds was to get finished as quickly as possible and disappear.

Upperclassmen were little better prepared, having forgotten, as best they could, the terrors of previous registrations. Even the ones who already had resigned themselves to two hours of agony could not always hide feelings of frustration. Pre-registration for many seniors helped to relieve the registration problem, but to many the ordeal remained a hassle.

From all ends of the earth, come forth ASU students. They enter our registration doors with high hopes and bright faces, alive with the eagerness of youth. They leave registration with weary feet and grim outlooks, sobered with the responsibilities of maturity.

Registration involves line, after line, . . . "Oh, no, not another card! Isn't there anything you don't know about me? Have I not already told you my innermost secrets? Yet I am only a multitude of numbers to you."

Carl R. Reng Center:

Students Gather For Coffee, Games

Got an hour to kill? Or are you just tired of going to that Western Civ class? Then what you do, or what many students do, is to go to the Reng Center and play a game of Foosball with buddies or anyone else who happens to have the same Western Civ instructor as you.

Reng Center — ASU's equivalent to a Student Center — appeals to a wide variety of people for many different reasons. The group (above, right) seems to be having a serious conversation about the coffee that only the Wigwam can prepare.

Some guys, and even a few girls, enjoy the machines in the Reng Center game room (above, left) located near the bowling alley and the pool tables on the first floor. One pool shark (right) practices his own brand of fishing for a ball, while girls stand outside the glass walls and watch.

(Above, left) "Who, me? Why I couldn't have knocked over those books. I was just standing here. I didn't even touch them — or, at least, I don't think I touched them."

4 Run For Senate President

Independents Organize

Of the four organized political groups which ran for Student Government positions, three were formed by independent students, consisting of "The" Party, Fem Troops and an independent group headed by presidential-hopeful Johnny Neeley of Piggott.

Several unusual three-dimensional campaign objects were used by the groups. Leon Holmes (left) of Hazen adjusts a box representing "student voice." His party urged that the "voice" could be unlocked by electing certain candidates. Another object (located lower right) was lettered "Fem Is In."

Campus Politickin' Starts With Rallies, Speeches

Well, the mud slinging started early this year — since the spring semester ended in early May, a constitutional amendment was passed which upped the annual political mud slinging, via the Student Government Association election, to April.

It was an interesting election — with various facets of the ASU community represented . . . The Women Libbers had Fem Troops; the independents were represented by Johnny Neeley and Chris Rolle, both of whom did not choose to run under a party banner; the Greeks had Robert Bahn; and those who liked to party had "The" Party.

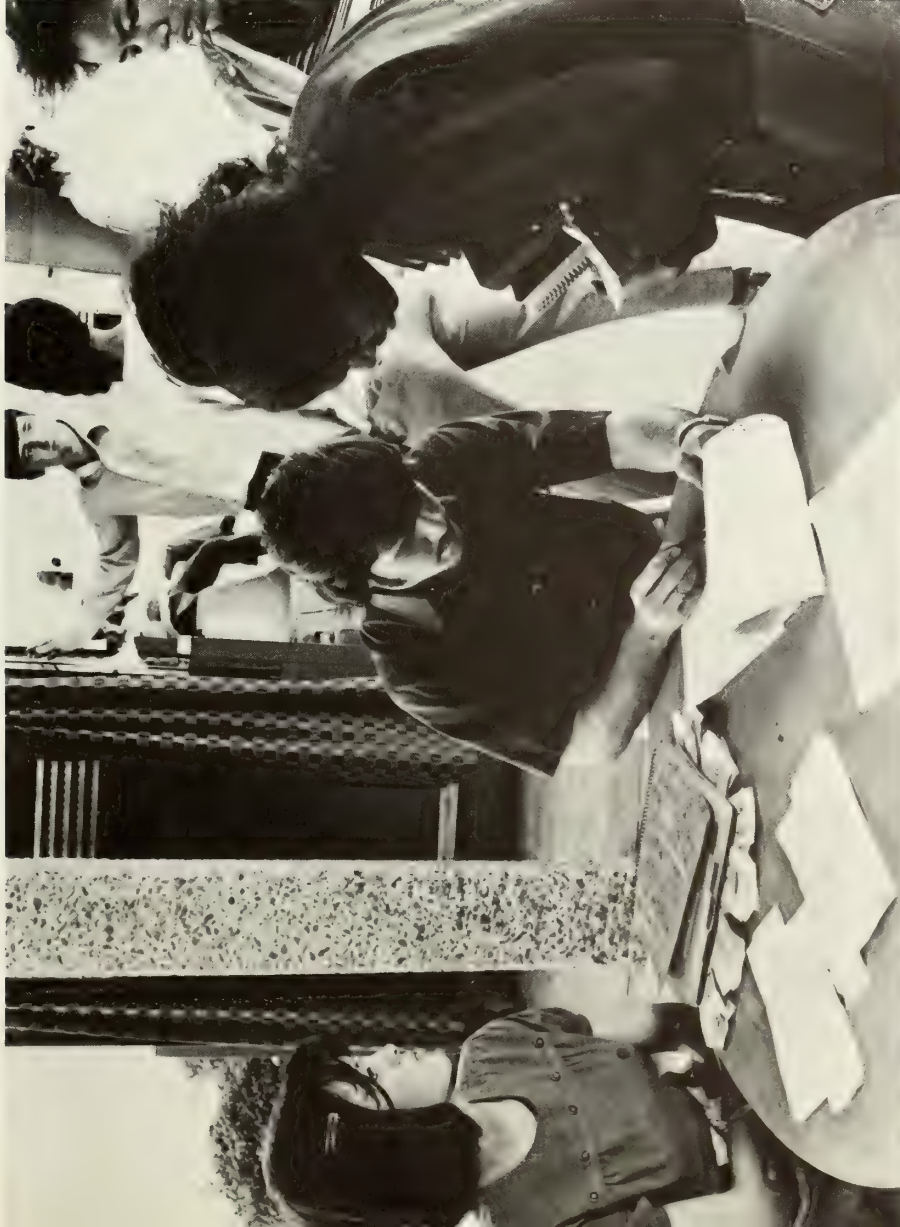

Johnny Neeley (above right) seems to be sizing up the issues in the presidential race: "They're just sooooo big!" Evalon Jacks, the Women's Libber candidate for the top job in the Student Government Association, claps in favor of a humorous audience response at her political rally aimed at poking some "pointed" humor towards certain prejudicial ASU community reactions to women.

Bahn Is The Winner

After the rallies, the speeches, street dances and the Sigma Delta Chi-ASU Broadcasting Club sponsored presidential debate, the voting machines were open and the balloting was begun. When all 1,782 votes were tallied (can you believe that grand vote total?), Bahn had been declared the winner of the presidential race and the Greek-dominated United Students Alliance Party had swept most of the major offices. However, because of the four other entrants in the presidential contest, Bahn missed having to face a run-off election with Leon Holmes by a mere five votes. There was a run-off for the first vice presidential spot — and Ed McClain, of North Little Rock, USA, won over Galen Lambert of Cherokee Village, "The" Party.

'Greaser Rock' Reborn . . .

A pair of round, luminous objects . . . and the girls who supported them also was featured during the 1950's concert. The Valianettes sang a selection of bobby-socks songs.

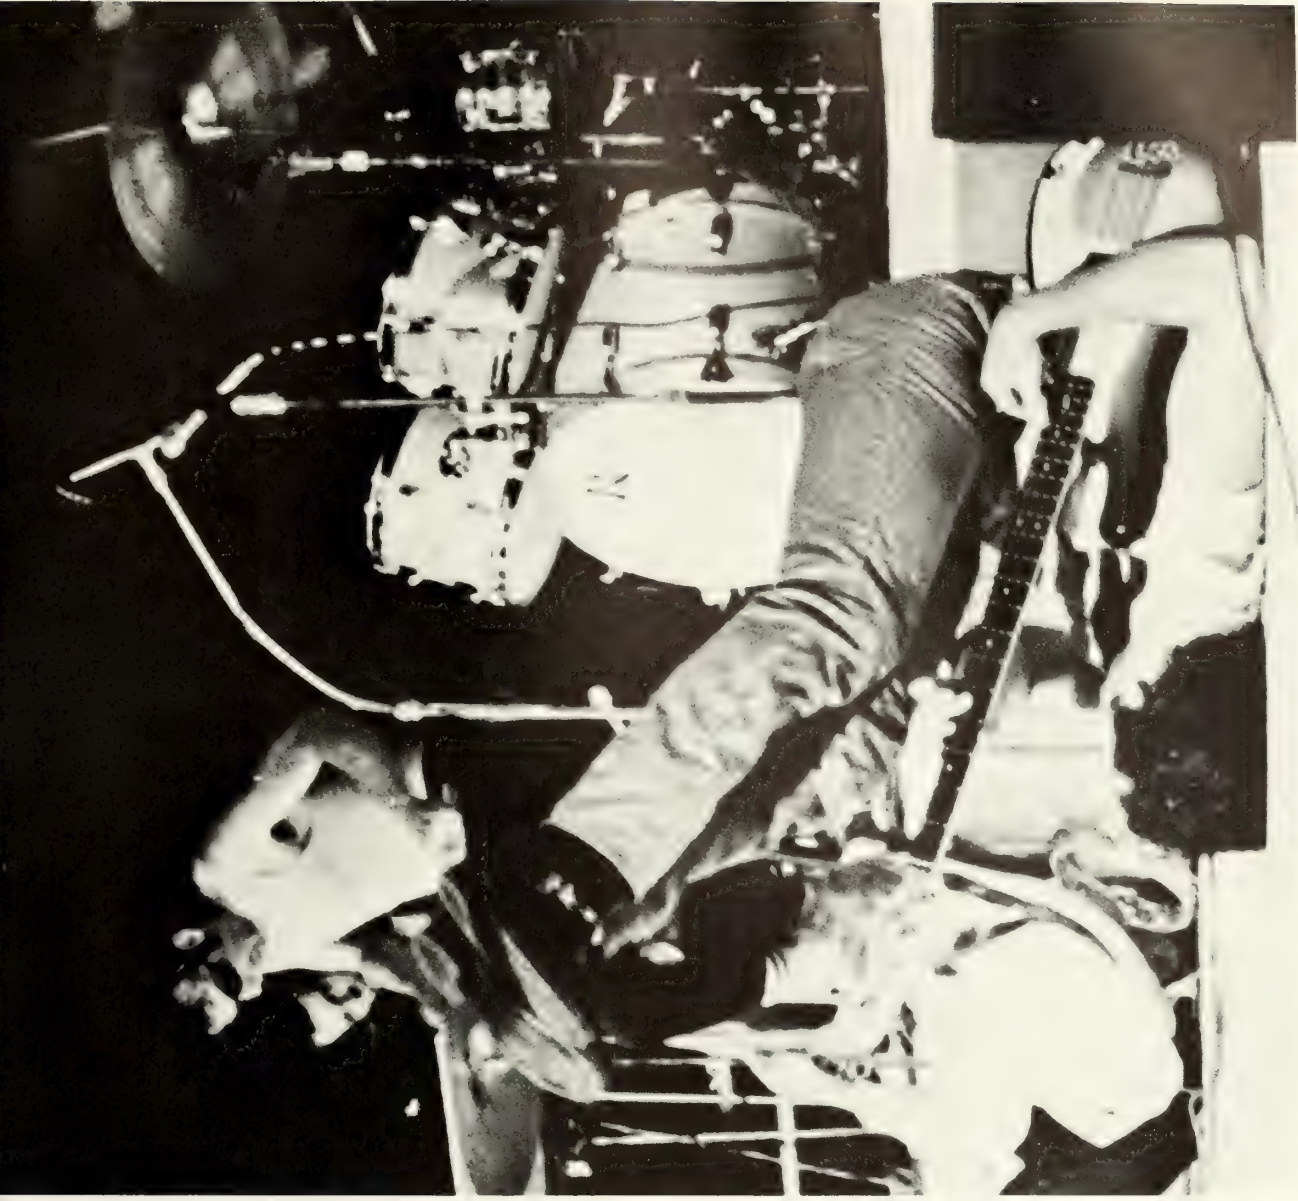

A gang of cool dudes accompanied by their dates, some slick chicks, invaded Indian Field House Sept. 28. Betty B. Bop of Squaresville said, "Like man, we came for the hop, you dig man?" The "hop" turned out to be a 1950's revival, consisting of a pep rally, concert which featured a New Orleans rock group, Vince Vance and the Valiants, and a sock-hop dance contest.

Participants in the event included sororities, fraternities and an assortment of "freaks" — the latter composed of males who frequently passed around bottles of Lucky Tiger Hair Oil.

Mirror, Mirror On The Wall, Brandy's The Fairest Of All

About 3,000 students crowded into Indian Field House Oct. 13 to hear Mac Davis and Looking Glass — two top performances back to back. The audience seemed to agree with a few shy smiles and a lot of hand clapping.

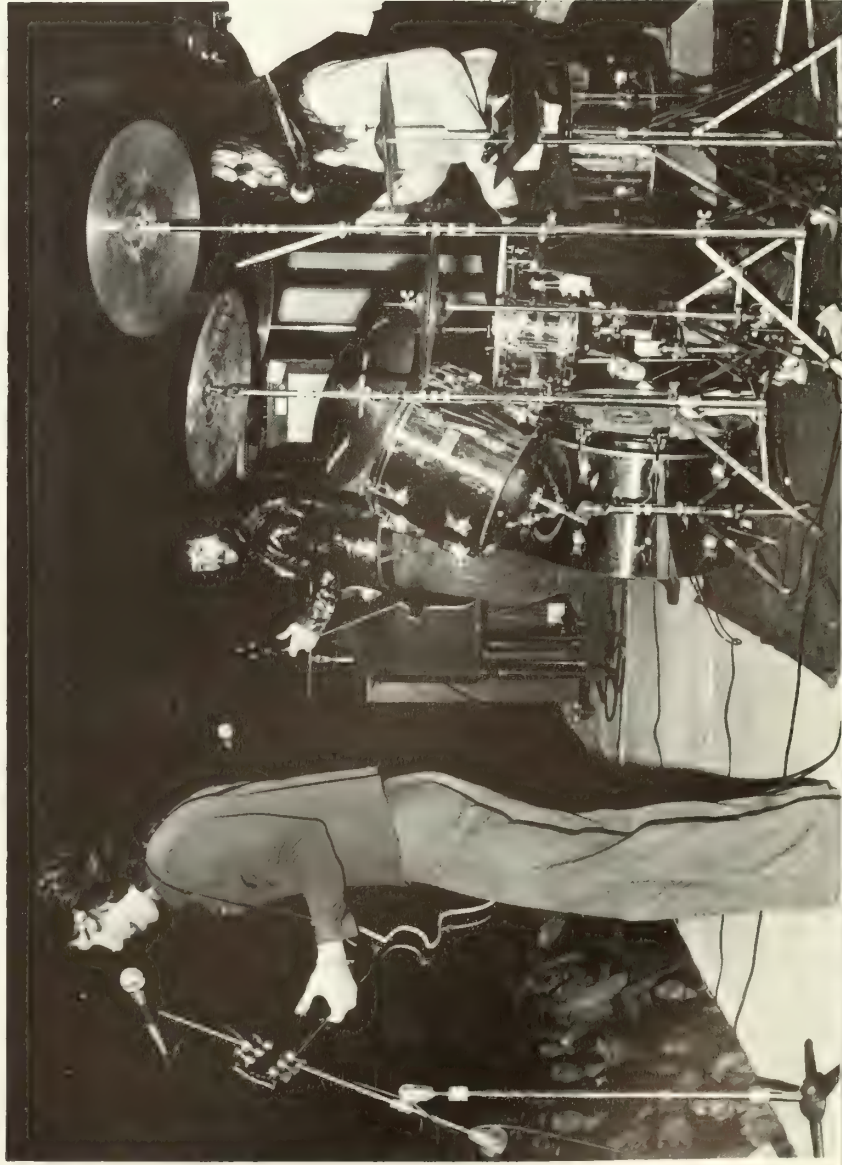

The school year started off with a bang — three great performers appearing almost back to back. Johnny Hartford (author of several songs that Glen Campbell made famous, like "Going Down That Long Lonesome Highway") kicked off the fall concert schedule with his show of blue grass and grass roots music. He performed right after an Indian football game Sept. 9 — after the game students really needed something to lift their spirits — well, at least a few did.

Then in October, Looking Glass, a four-piece rock group followed Mac Davis, song writer, to Jonbur for a double concert. The group's famous song "Brandy" didn't come off to well — neither did their entire performance — but that was due to some faulty technical equipment.

Mac Davis really stole the show. Afterwards, he remarked that the ASU crowd response was "one of the top three best receptions that I've ever received . . . I love ya! God knows it; I love ya!" One student in the audience summed up everyone else's feelings when he said: "We love ya, too!"

Tribe Enjoys 'Wet,' Wild LR Weekend With:

Fans, Friends

Fans and friends of the Arkansas State University Indians traveled 132 miles to the "Rock" city Oct. 14 to meet the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs in a Southland Conference clash. Fraternities placed signs intermittently along the LR route on state Highway 39 advising motorists that the "Indians are coming!"

Rain, Football

A light drizzle earlier in the day cooled the air but did not dampen the 'spirits' present at the game. Going into the contest, Louisiana Tech was nationally rated number one in the college division, and the Indians tried unsuccessfully to upset that ranking — A football victory was too much, but what a weekend!

Booze, Parties

Booze and parties abounded in Little Rock, a wet city, that was even 'wetter' when the Indians came to town. Lambda Chi's, Pikes and the Sigma Pi's scheduled dances and parties after the game. The ATO's and KA's also did their share of "keeping spirits" high. Pep rallies and a band performance created an exciting game.

The Weather Was Nippy— Just Right For Cuddling!

Lambda Chi's and their dates (above) found the chilly weather just right for cuddling, while band members (below) found that everything, even a Little Rock weekend, "goes better with —" — is that Coke?" One smiling ASU student (right) humorously viewed the other fans (or was it the game?) below him.

With books and tests laid aside for the weekend, everyone seemed to be smiling, that is, everyone except maybe the football team who just couldn't seem to get it all together.

The merchants, storeowners and the Little Rock townsmen made earlier preparations — they replaced a FEW Big Red signs with Jumpin' Joe ones — who's Big Red anyway???

Bubblin' Over With Spirit!

Location of the Little Rock Pep Rally was changed this year from the downtown area to the north end of War Memorial Stadium — right before game time. Cheerleaders and majorettes (left) transmitted their bubblin' enthusiasm to the crowd during the pre-game warm-up.

No reason for the change of location was given, but a guess would be that ASU fans got tired of having local townsmen sell them Big Red hats, pen-nants and stuffed pigs, before, during and after the pep rallies of past years.

It had also been frustrating to see only a few Injun Joe signs placed in store windows — and then next to the "other" university's posters!

A few stores wised up this year. They took down the "phony" red stuff and put up the real thing — Injun red that is!

Push 'Em— Way Back

Shouts of: "Push 'em back way back!" and "Blood makes the grass grow," in addition to "S-O-C-K — I-T, Sock it to Me, Baby!" filled the crisp night air.

Sock It To 'Em, Go State

Astro-turf on the War Memorial Stadium football field in Little Rock got a real tryout — from the Arkansas State University Indians and the cheerleaders (left) alike. Students (above) seemed unconcerned about the field and/or the game.

Indian Village:

A Fast-Growing Married Community

Go down Aggie Road past Arkansas Hall; turn left, and after a short distance, you will be in a miniature suburban community with rows of white trailers. The modestly-priced rent and the nearness to classes makes Indian Village a haven for many young married students.

The local washateria (right) always is crowded — some afternoons it is impossible to find a washer — but while one waits time can always be spent reading the bulletin board and laughing over an ingenious student's way to earn extra money.

Life With Two

Politicians Visit Jonbur, Sweet Talk Students

Governor Dale Bumpers was just one of several politicians who visited Jonbur prior to the November election, shaking hands, kissing babies and wooing what came to be termed "that all important youth vote." Candidates for all the major state offices, or their representatives, attended a political rally which was held at Indian Mall and was sponsored by the League of Women Voters. ASU students turned out for the event too — many were just curious bystanders, some were confused voters trying to decide which way to mark their ballots and a few were interested, enthusiastic first-time participants in a political campaign who had donated their time, money and effort to help elect the candidate of their choice.

Campaign '72 Brings Student Involvement

The candidates pictured, (above) Lt. Gov. Bob Riley, Pulaski County Clerk Jerry Climer and (below) Ken Coon, also came to the Northeast Arkansas area to woo votes. Students were encouraged to register to vote in their home counties, or in Craighead County, if they qualified.

When election day rolled around, 11 million youth, between the ages of 18 and 21 were eligible to vote for the first time in a Presidential election due to the passage of the 26th amendment. And they did vote — by absentee ballot, if registered at their home counties, and on the back of fire trucks, on the top of boxes, or, in a few cases, by voting machine in the Jonbur area.

After the votes were counted, many politicians who underestimated the youth vote got a rude awakening — two ASU students were elected to office.

Students, Faculty Run For Office

Well, if Jonesboro residents ever try to forget that this is a 'college town', there now will be a few people in office to remind them that the University Community has special needs that must be met.

ASU coed, Marcia Agee now controls the city's purse strings as Jonesboro treasurer; another student, Jerry Goforth, will sit on the city council; and (pictured, above right) Don Minx, chairman of the Division of Music, and Ralph Stricklin, Reng Center engineer, won alderman's positions. Albert Mink, associate professor of engineering, ran but lost his political bid for a councilman's slot.

"That young kid? You mean you are askin' me to vote for him?" That was probably an immediate reaction that the (above) youth received when they canvassed Jonesboro in support of Jerry Goforth — but after a period of thought, many voters — old and young alike — must have changed their minds to: "Well, he might not make a bad city councilman at that!" because Goforth won his race.

Politickin' Fever Invades Campus, Voting Is Diagnosed As 'Cure'

'A Real Thriller' ... 'Wait Until Dark'

Described by director Terry Huckabee, assistant professor of drama, as a "thriller that will shock you out of your seat," the mystery play "Wait Until Dark" proved to do just that! Special lighting effects also were used to give a heightened feeling of eeriness to the October speech and drama production.

Living in a New York Greenwich Village basement apartment, the main characters of the play, a young photographer and his blind wife, became unwilling accomplices to a crime.

Double-cast in the lead role of the blind wife were Abby Brown of St. Louis and Rebecca Boyles of Augusta. Others in the play included: Barbara Mangrum of West Memphis, Ron Quinn of Pine Bluff, Terry Goodman of Fort Dodge, Iowa, and Mike Mallott of West Memphis.

"Now, where did I put that other pie pan?" could be the question that Abby Brown of St. Louis is asking as she crawls on the floor in this scene from the play "Wait Until Dark." (Above, right) Miss Brown is confronted by "bad guy" Terry Goodman of Fort Dodge, Iowa. When asked to describe his role, Goodman replied, "Da, I play da heavy; da, ya know what I mean, wise guy?"

"I don't wanna play wif you anymore — so I'm gonna take my toys home," says Barbara Mangrum of West Memphis (or did she?). Ron Quinn of Pine Bluff and Abby Brown of St. Louis (above, right) talk about their strange involvement with gangsters — (below, right) Terry Goodman of Fort Dodge, Iowa, is pictured asking Mike Mallott of West Memphis if he would like his tie altered . . .

Howja Like A Tie-Cut?

Sweat 'n Nails Create Displays

Unlike past Homecomings, the biting weather forced groups who built displays to work "behind the scenes" this year in warehouses and friends' garages instead of on the lawn in front of the Reng Center and Wilson Hall. When completed, students then assembled the parts outdoors (like ATO Chris O'Mary of Fordyce). The TKE's (top, left) won the mechanical division again — was anyone really surprised? — while ZTA took first place in stationary with lights.

Hail To The Chief!

Is that a peace sign or a victory sign that Indian Chief Lanny Johns of Weldon is flashing to the crowd?

Huddled under a sea of umbrellas, it was hard to tell if any students were responding to the Chief's message. Johns' ride around the track, in celebration of an Arkansas State University TD, was a rare sight in the 1972 football season — but Homecoming fans saw it a few times during the Tribes' 32-22 loss to Trinity University in a cold, wet conference clash.

The rain wasn't the only thing that was "shared" during the game — a few bottles also were passed around. Usually playing before packed stands bulging with 8,000, the 1972 Homecoming crowd dwindled to about 100 as the freezing temperatures forced fans to abandon their seats.

One of the better known dignitaries in the Homecoming crowd was Chief Blanket Bear who said, "It's a heap cold day for 'em massacre!"

Queen Tonya Reigns Through An Umbrella

Homecoming Concert Features 'Grease,' Blues

After waiting and waiting, the Dirt Band Concert finally started. It seems that the truck carrying the group's equipment got lost between Jonbur and Memphis. But playing with borrowed equipment, the five-member band finally got it all together and started the show.

And what a show it was — everything from grease, to rock, to blues, to comedy — and back again.

Of course, the song that everyone was waiting on was "Mr. Bo Jangles".

After a brief break, the group came back in 1950's costumes, complete with grease and an Elvis look-alike, for a bit of nostalgia.

Following the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band Concert, this ASU couple "got a little closer" at the SGA-sponsored dance.

Letting it all hang out — or at least part of it — during a livelier moment at the SGA dance following the concert.

Baby, It's Cold!

Mounds of snow and ice created problems for students returning to ASU after semester break — in fact, many students had difficulty in trudging back to campus over the icy roads. But once "home" students put the harsh weather to good use.

Snow ball fights, walks (or stumbles) through campus, sledging down hills and a new sport — snow discing — became the most popular modes of entertainment.

Another favorite activity was sliding — in cars! — in the icy parking lots behind the men's and women's dormitories.

Forecast: Snow, Ice Frostbite Expected

"Ohhh! That's the last time that I will agree to a snow facial! I'll kill him — I don't care if he is my English professor!!!" The coed (above), was one of many students who left the warmth and security of their dormitories to venture out into the cold for a few snow ball fights during a winter snow storm which greeted students on their return to campus after the Christmas break.

A Little Soul, Much Nostalgia

Blues, nostalgia and student rights were some of the topics discussed at spring concerts.

The Mitchell-Ruff Duo (above, left) starred in an "Afro-American Musical Heritage" program, presented in March, which traced the development of Afro-American music today; while a bit of twentieth century nostalgia was brought forth by a ragtime pianist, Max Morath (above, right), who utilized jokes, stories, songs and slides in his "Turn of the Century" performance.

Dr. John Hammonds, a presidential aide, (left) gave information to students on their legal rights.

Three Hours Needed For 'Twain' Change

Well, he did it — three hours (or layers) of makeup later, actor-scholar John Chappell brought Mark Twain to the Wilson Hall stage.

Chappell's realistic makeup job and 19th century suit tricked the audience into a double-take — was that an actor or had Twain really come to ASU?

A part of the Lecture-Concert presentation, the professional dramatist portrayed the Missouri author during two night performances.

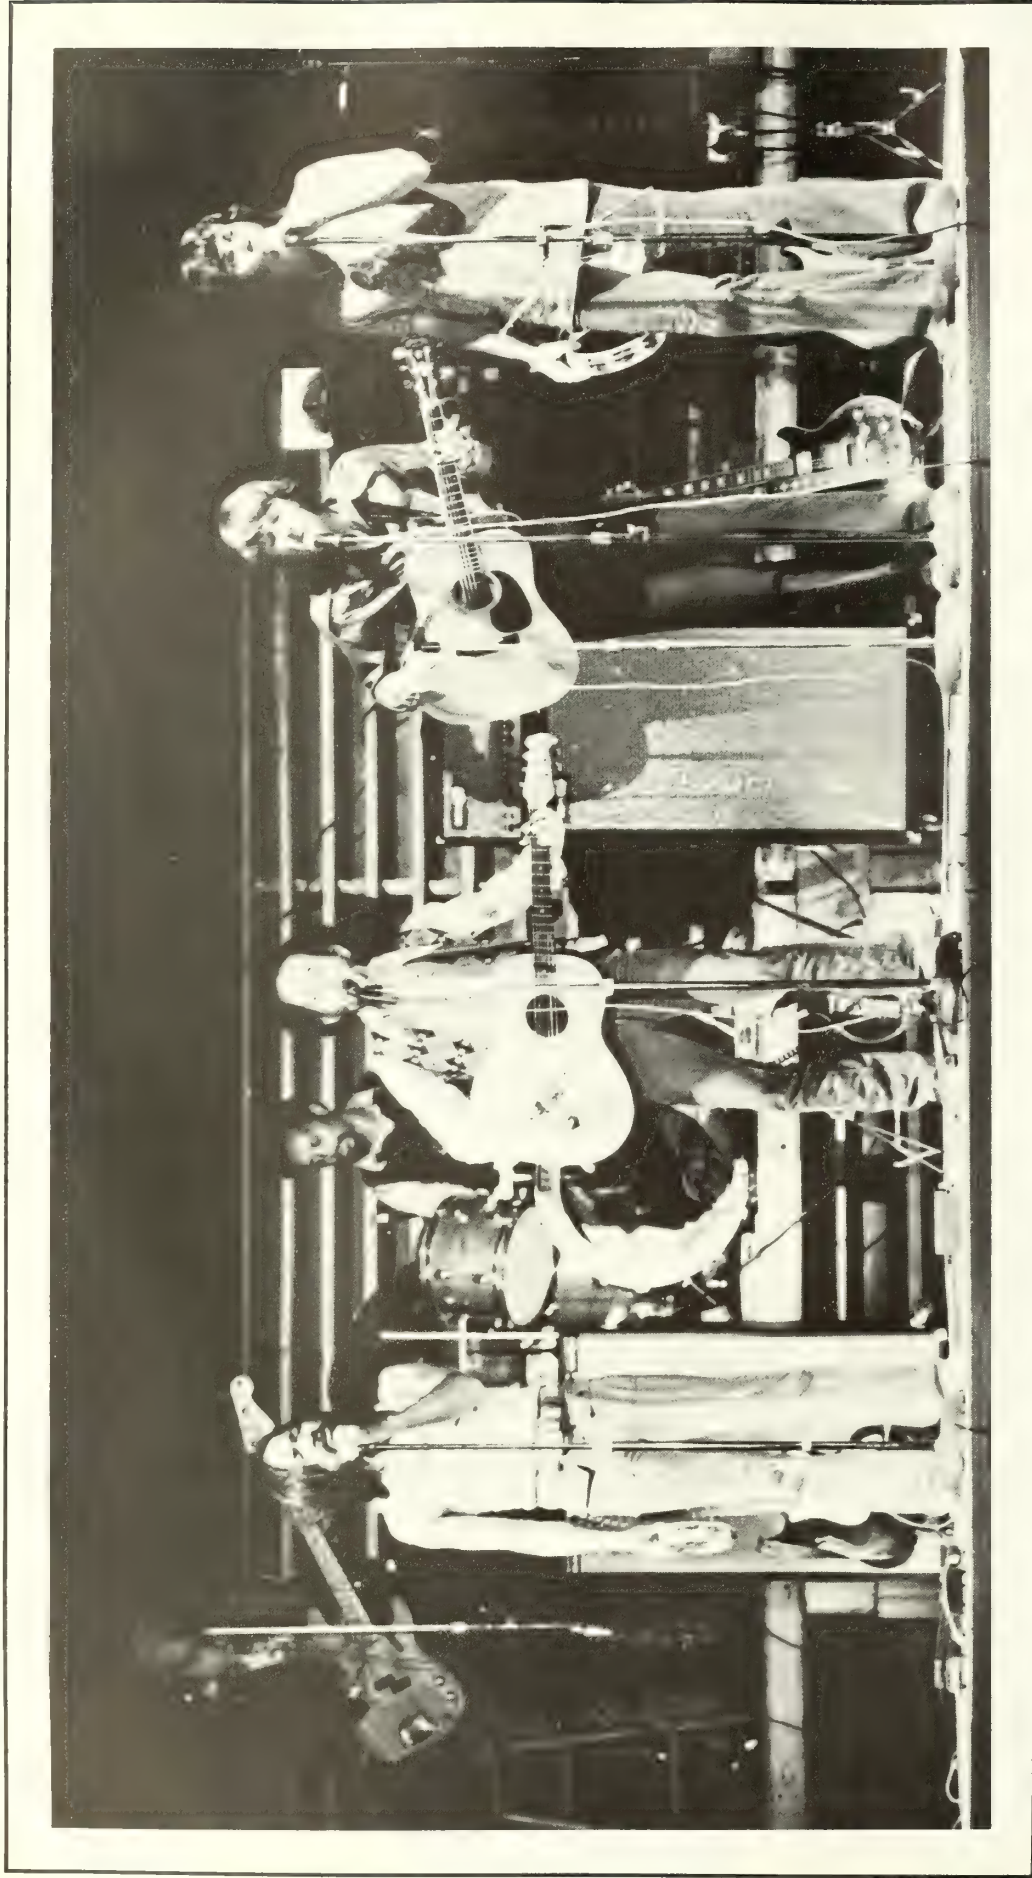

Patterned from Hal Holbrook's famous impersonation of Twain, Chappell had received permission from Holbrook to use material from Holbrook's highly acclaimed "Mark Twain Tonight" for his ASU presentation.

Chappell has read extensively and studied the life of Twain, learning the character thoroughly. In his performance, Chappell related Twain's writings to the modern world.

And Along Comes ... The Association!

The only disappointment that the crowd of students at The Association Concert suffered was that the group, due to previous commitments, would not play several encores. Before their too-soon departure, the audience did hear some of the groups most popular songs: "Windy," "Cherish," "Along Comes Mary," "Never My Love," "Time for Living," "Six Man Band" and "Goodbye Columbus."

After a long delay in starting the concert, the restless audience finally settled down — and began clapping and singing along with the music. Some laughter also was heard over the antics of the group during breaks between songs.

Members of The Association have changed since the group was formed in 1965. Several "new" faces were seen at the Oct. 27 concert. Current members of the band are: Jules Alexander, Terry Kirkman, Brian Cole, Ted Bluchei, Richard Thompson, Jim Yester and Larry Ramos.

The Association has produced nine top chart albums, according to Billboard magazine, seven gold records, and several Grammy Award nominations. About 60 of the 74 songs that they have recorded are original.

"Along Comes . . . the Association" — and the Arkansas State University student body was sorry that they went.

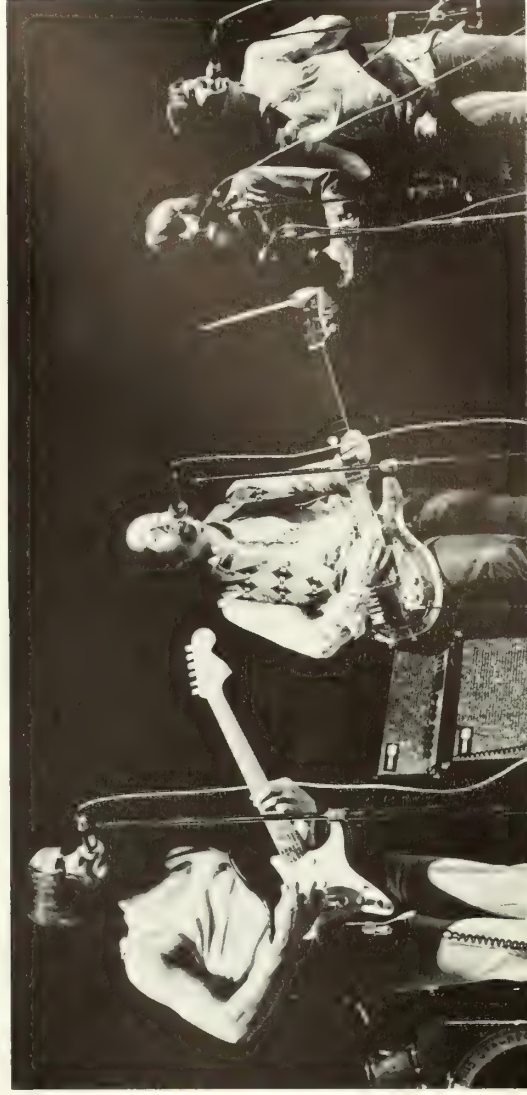

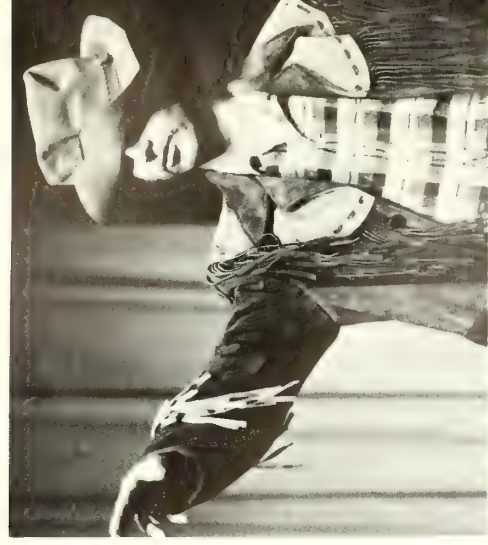

"One of the best concerts of the year" was a typical reaction to The Association Concert Oct. 27. A full house heard the 7-member group play all their old favorites, in addition to some of their new cuts.

Jimmy Buffett (pictured above), a solo-writer-artist, appeared with the famous group. A graduate of Southern Mississippi, he sang several selections from his album "Down to Earth." His harmonica-playing sidekick also entertained the crowd with some down to earth humming.

Students Have 'The Time of Their Life' In Play

This year, Wilson Hall Auditorium was transformed into a 1930's waterfront saloon located in San Francisco — booze in Wilson — does Dean James know?

All the fuss was caused by a special speech and drama production, a 3-act comedy written by William Saroyan and directed by Kenneth Parks, drama instructor. The play, entitled "The Time of Your Life," presented a loosely-connected series of stories in which a group of people ranging from a pin ball machine addict to a love-sick clerk to an ancient cowboy to a rich, young man desperately search for and realize their dreams.

It was really good — as are all ASU theatrical productions (no one paid us to say that).

The play has won two awards — the Pulitzer Prize for drama in 1939 and the Drama Circle Critics Award.

Cast members included: Linda London of Stuttgart, Florence Smith of Altheimer, Rosanne Brown of Camden, Roxiann Wood of Little Rock, George Roberts of Colt, Daniel Wiseman of Searcy, Sam Vaught of Hickory Ridge, Abby Brown of St. Louis, Gary Burg of Paragould, Bob and Sally Dale of Jonesboro and Rebecca Boyles of Augusta.

Whadda Ya Mean Where's My ID?

(Top) "I dunno, maybe if I hadn't had that last drink I could keep my mouth shut now."
... (Bottom) "Humm, it's good but nothin' can beat that draft Schlitz at Roy's."

Other cast members in the Pulitzer Prize winning drama included: Earl Hughes of Jonesboro, Raymond Willie of Little Rock, Dennis Kersting and Random Gott, both of Jonesboro, and Steven Dapp of Blytheville.

Also: Paul Owens and Sandy Owens, both of Pine Bluff, James Shea of Little Rock, Pam Royer of Blytheville, Rodger Bumpass of Little Rock, Steve Golden of Jonesboro, Lynda Hobbs of Little Rock, Ronald Douthet of Crawfordsville, Jack Bell of Cabot and Butch Gilbert of Jonesboro.

Coeds Decorate Dorm As Dean Plays Santa

Best Present—Vacation!

Yuletide meant many things to many members of the Arkansas State University community — to Robert Moore, dean of students (above, left) it became a red suit and the awe-struck faces of children who gathered at Caraway Hall for the annual children's Christmas party sponsored by the Greeks; to two University Hall residents (above, right) it was a Christmas tree decoration party; to German Club students (below, left) it meant not having to stand outside in the freezing rain to participate in the annual Greek songfest; and to many coeds it materialized into the long-awaited-for two-week vacation as semester break approached.

For some students, Christmas '72 was the first holiday period that they had ever spent away from home — their problems centered around trying to find places in Jonbur to shop. For other students, the season brought a round of parties which of course meant another round of presents, preferably in the form of a Jack Daniels bottle. To some (but alas, only a few) instructors, the holidays brought a sense of never-before-seen-or-thought of compassion — and that is how some of us passed our finals!

Where's That Line?

ASU Gropes Thru Registration

The only long lines that students faced during spring registration for classes were the fee lines in the administration building (above, left).

About 5,000 students pre-registered for classes (below, left), causing the marked decrease in line length.

Fees also could have been paid in advance — before Christmas break — but most students waited until after break to hand over the cash.

After Break, Its Back To The Grind

After a much-welcomed and greatly-needed two and one-half week Christmas break, it was "back to the old grind" for most students — the others being lucky enough to get a job or marry a millionaire!

Pre-registration brought many changes to the "get-your-cards-for-classes" hassle; however, one change that did not occur was in the long lines at the Book Store in the Reng Center. Once again, books, that off-required, seldom-used commodity, took the largest slice out of a student's loan payment (below, right).

Many students (left) viewed the whole scene in dazed silence.

Gourmets Get Bar

Among the many improvements made on campus this year were some noticeable changes in the Chickasaw Cafeteria, that "haven for hungry gourmets."

Are you kidding, a candlelight supper? Yeah, they finally turned the lights out on us while we ate.

During one experimental meal, candles and paper placemats were put on the tables. Even through the dim candlelight students realized that they were eating steak — at last!!

In the spring, a salad bar (non-alcoholic, of course) was installed. Students had all they could eat — of cottage cheese, lettuce, carrots, pickles, beets, etc., etc., etc.

Students Create Fairy Tale As 'Alice' Comes to ASU

Drama students chose "Alice in Wonderland" to be the first major all-student production — and it was a wise choice, indeed. The play, produced independently of any college or division, had a student director, Phil Smith of Jonesboro, who took charge of a 38-member cast. However, several drama instructors supervised the production. Students, Terry Goodman of Fort Dodge, Iowa, and Jim Craig of Jonesboro, wrote the music and arranged the dances for the show.

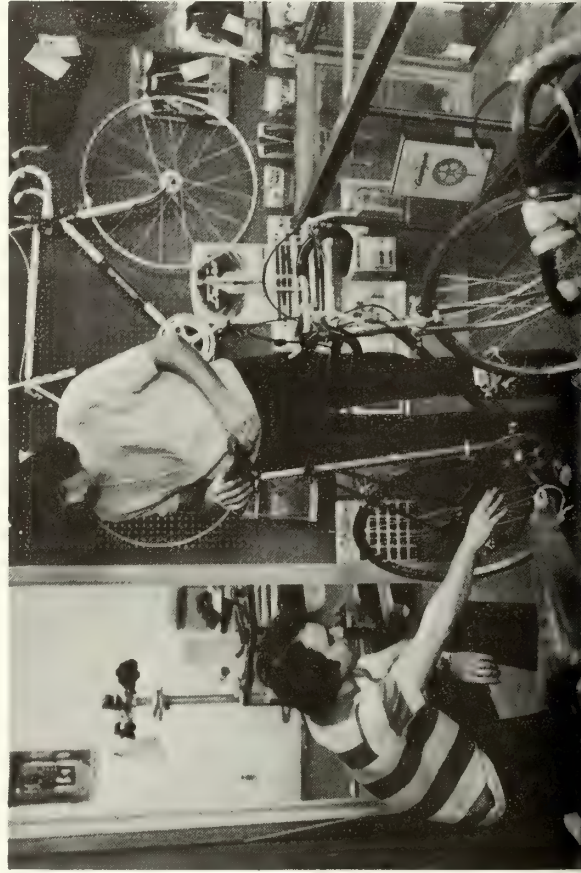

"On your mark," or something similar to that probably is what Alice, portrayed by Debbie Benson, is saying to these two "Wonderland" characters whom she meets on her journey.

Bikes: 'Pedal Power' Comes to ASU

Increased gasoline prices and the fast-rising number of cars on an already-crowded Caraway Road caused many ASU students to abandon their autos and take up a more ancient mode of transportation — bicycles. One group of bike enthusiasts formed a Jonesboro Wheelmen's Club so that they might share their riding experiences. (Above, left) The Wheelmen (or women?) park their cars and pick up their two-wheeled vehicles for a short Saturday afternoon trip. After the ride (below, right) the cyclists enjoy a little wine and cheese — the perfect ending for a perfect day.

Students Use Trees For 'Parking Lots'

One ASU student is profiting from the new bike craze because he has opened a Jonesboro Bike Shop, specializing in fancy English racers (above, left).

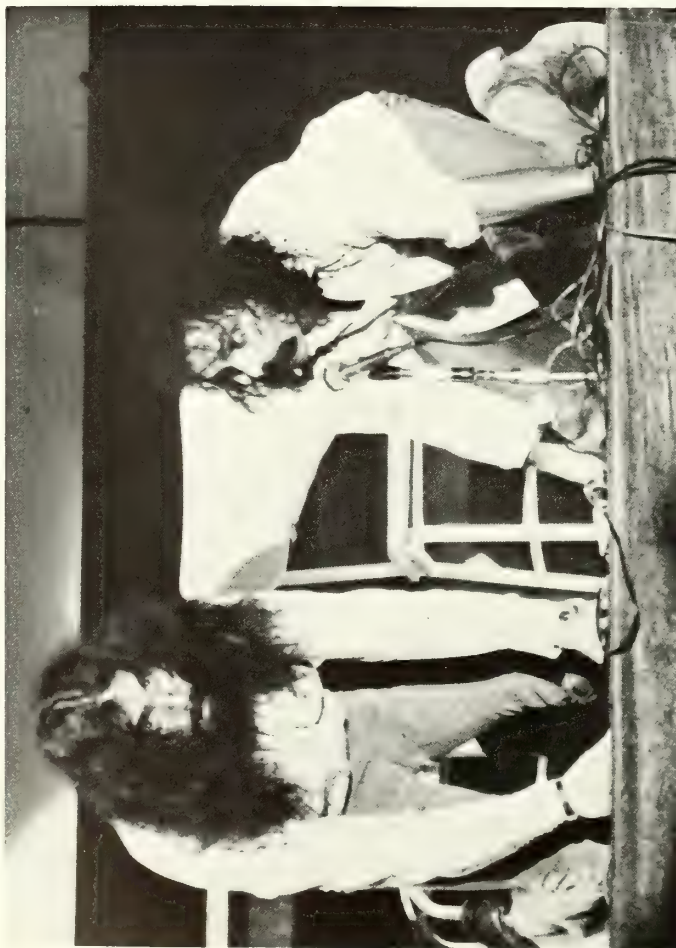

Some students found crowded Caraway Road (above) too much of a hassle to confront and rode their bikes to classes. A small tree (left) became the perfect bike rack for one student.

Phil Bridger, director of Housing, sensing the impact of the fad, had several bike racks installed inside the dormitories for residents' use.

Cheech 'N' Chong:

Did You Hear the One About...?

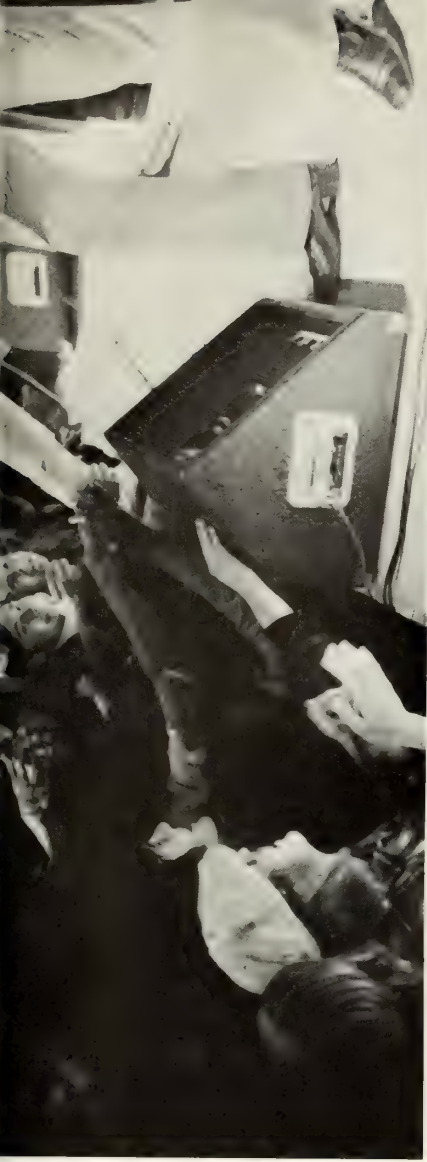

(Above, right) Cheech and Chong presented a sketch, entitled "Right on Washington," which centered around a confrontation between a hippie and an old man in Pidgeon Park. The comedians (above, left) did an impersonation (or is that animalization) of two dogs, content calmly to discuss the day's events until Fifi, that Raquel Welch of the dog-world, passed by.

The California humorists delighted the crowd with their imitations of about 40 characters, ranging from soldiers to D.J.'s.

B. B. King grasps a "Bud" with one hand and reaches to shake the hand of an admiring ASU fan with the other. A member of the audience handed the blues-guitarist a beer which he gratefully, perhaps, finished off and returned to the happy owner — one of the few times, a student was glad to get an empty beer can returned to him!

B. B. King Brings Soul to A-State

Climaxing a variety of events held in celebration of Black History Week, B. B. King, one of the greatest blues-guitarists, rocked Indian Fieldhouse with two hours of hard, fast playing and singing. He took a short break to grab a "Bud", change his suit and allow the Black Students Association to raffle off a stereo. Before he came to ASU, a few students knew the definition of rock — after he left — everyone knew it and felt it.

Rain, Rain Go Away— And the Spring Sun Came

Spring Fever Hits; Kites, Break Arrives

Through February and March, rains flooded the ASU campus. Umbrella dots appeared everywhere. Finally, students cast their rainsoaked coats and umbrellas aside as warm spring weather arrived.

Couples, like the one pictured above, searched and found their place in the sun — in this case, a hillside near the Laboratory Science Building.

Kite fever hit the campus, noticeably affecting one group of Pikes (below) who chose the band practice field as the site for their kite launches.

The warm weather enticed students away from their books. More congregations were seen — especially around the "in" place for students — the campus post office (right).

Some coeds (above, right) were more concerned about letters from home (and perhaps an emergency loan of $5 from Mom and Dad) than a change in seasons. Break came and students packed their suitcases again but this time it was for a trip to Florida or the ski lodge at Marble Falls, instead of a visit home.

ASU Unites In Concern Over POW-MIA Plight

In 1964, James "Jack" Teague was an ASU student. After graduation he enlisted in the armed services. In 1967 he was stationed in South Vietnam and on Nov. 19, his plane was forced down on a bombing run over North Vietnam. For three days his status was unknown and, then on Nov. 22, a Warsaw newspaper printed a photograph of several American identification cards, among them was Teague's. Since that time, Teague's parents and several Jonesboro residents and ASU students became actively involved in the POW-MIA issue.

"POW's never have a nice day," (left) so states the POW-MIA literature which was displayed at the Craighead County Fair. And the pamphlets related in gory-detail why the prisoners' day isn't so nice. Several ASU coeds manned the booths, as part of a campus concern group's efforts to make the public more aware of the POW issue. (Above, right) Frank Raines of Dewitt, campus POW concern group leader, directs a group of ASU coeds who prepare to distribute literature in the Jonesboro area.

POW Week Set

In order to generate interest in the POW issue, ASU students formed a campus concern group, headed by Frank Raines of De-witt. The students set up a literature display booth at the Craig-head County Fair, a road block to collect money to finance a trip to Washington to discuss the issue with national leaders and the distribution of POW bumper stickers and bracelets stamped with the name of a prisoner and designed to be worn by concerned citizens until the prisoner is returned home. (Below, left) Dean Moore receives a flag from Teague's parents.

Graduates Hear Bumpers

About 877 students in May and 396 students in August, walked out of ASU — with their diplomas in hand, that is.

Governor Dale Bumpers and Dr. Andrew Holt, president emeritus of the University of Tennessee, respectively, spoke to the two graduating classes.

To the administration, graduation meant a renewal of a continuing process. To the graduates, it meant their last long line, that well-earned diploma — and a celebration at Roy's!

A Final Prayer—

With heads bowed, these ASU graduates are, perhaps, offering a final prayer — a final hope — for the future before leaving their Alma Mater.

No More Lines—
Diploma At Last!

Dedications are seldom in the INDIAN, but this year's annual is dedicated to two persons who are, in their own ways, integral parts of the University system: ROY and TEX FINDLEY, friends of the school and the ASU students.
